

On November 8th CAPS hosted the first My Campus event of the academic school year highlighting the Schools of Allied Health Professions and Public Health.

We hosted an unprecedented amount of students, sixty two in total. Within the School of Allied Health Professions, high school students learned about the careers of Orthotics & Prosthetics, Cardiopulmonary Sciences and Speech Pathology. Two students from the School of Public Health shared their personal journey in choosing Public Health as a major. The School of Public Health engaged the students in a fun game of Jeopardy, expanding their knowledge of the different fields within Public Health.

The highlight of the event for both Loma Linda graduate students and the high school students were the Speed Mentoring and Dinner and Mentoring portion of the event. Graduate students provided valuable information relating to the college experience and the importance of finishing high school. High School students were able to gain new insight on planning for college and were encouraged to stay in touch with their mentors. Overall the event was a success and we look forward to hosting high school students again in February and April.
